

CIGARETTES TO BE EXCLUDED

This Is The Purport Of The Bill Passed By The Assembly This Morning.

MEASURE EXCLUDES MATERIALS

Other Work Of The Legislature Is Now Being Hastened Along--Interesting Week For Legislation.

(SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.)
Madison, Wis., March 7.—The assembly has passed the anti-cigarette bill of Mr. Evans, with only one opposing vote. Assemblyman Page of Milwaukee, an enemy of the measure, attempted to delay the action by declaring he was in favor of it but wanted it referred to the judiciary committee for examination as to its constitutionality. His motion was voted down and the bill was passed with his vote being the only one recorded in opposition.

New Circuit
The senate has passed a bill restricting the judiciary circuits of the state, and creating one more. Some verbal and unimportant amendments were made by the senate and concurred in by assembly, all action being under the suspension of rules. The bill now goes to the governor for his approval.

Very Rigid
The Evans bill is similar to that of senator Bird. It prohibits the sale or importation of cigarettes or materials in Wisconsin. The tobacco people are becoming active in the senate for a strenuous resistance to its passage.

in that body. It is said it will be a mighty expensive fight.
The Grain Bill
The final passage of the Superior grain inspection bill, the introduction of Senator Prewitt's resolution providing for an investigation of the subject of a state system of life insurance and the determination of the senate to meet at 9 o'clock each morning instead of ten o'clock were the things which centered the largest importance and interest at the opening sessions of the legislative week last night.

Much Interest
This week will be big with interest in the amount of work done by the makers of laws. A large number of bills will be killed and perhaps the greatest portion of the calendars will be devoted to the measures that have been killed out by committees as freak bills, and such as should be assigned as tenders and at the same time as expeditiously as may be to an early grave.

Railroad Bill
The hearings on the railroad rate commission bill are to continue this afternoon before the joint committee on railroads and it is expected that a few addresses in favor of such legislation will be made by friends of the administration. Tomorrow night another hearing will be held on fish and game bills.

PRESIDENT SALISBURY AS VIEWED BY THE TEACHERS

Candidate For State Superintendent Of Schools Is a Very Popular Man In The State.

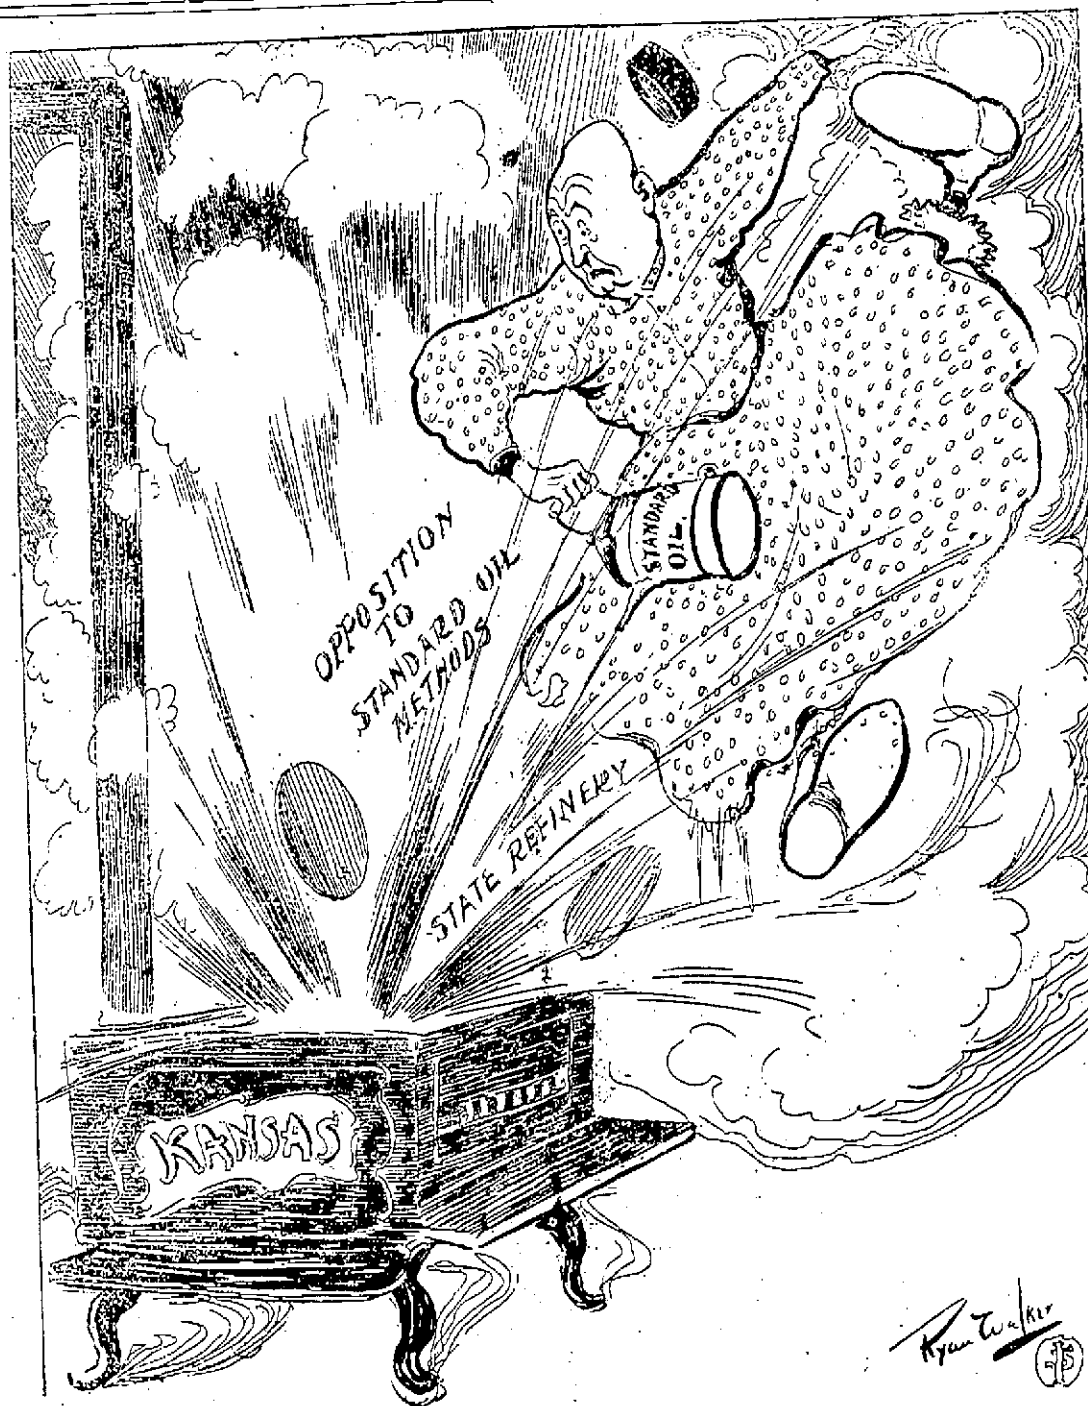

Perhaps no class of people is better able to judge of President Salisbury's capabilities than the alumni and former students of the Whitewater Normal school. Many of the former Normal students, knowing his worth and competency, have rejoiced that President Salisbury has consented to become a non-partisan candidate for the office of state superintendent of schools throughout the state, in the country as well as in the city. For years he has taken a prominent part in all public meetings in the interest of education; indeed, no teachers' association meeting is complete without the presence of President Salisbury. He is a man of wonderful executive ability; he has the peculiar power, also, to look date for the office of state superintendent. The writer, therefore, takes this means of expressing some of the reasons why President Salisbury would make a good state superintendent. First of all, he has for many years been associated with the educational interests of Wisconsin, being for twenty years president of the Whitewater Normal and always interested and active in securing better schools throughout the state, in the country as well as in the city. For years he has taken a prominent part in all public meetings in the interest of education; indeed, no teachers' association meeting is complete without the presence of President Salisbury. He is a man of wonderful executive ability; he has the peculiar power, also, to look closely after innumerable details, as well as to administer large affairs, a characteristic which will well fit him to discharge the many duties incumbent upon the state superintendent. Above all else, President Salisbury is a man of firm principle and power. We have the support of all true citizens in the coming election.

FARMERS PLAN FOR GIANT TRUST AMONG THEMSELVES

An Organization Is Being Formed To Combat The Other Giant Trusts Of Commerce.

Marshalltown, Iowa, March 7.—A movement has been started in Iowa to organize the farmers of the state by school districts with a view to consolidating organizations of like character in every school district in the nation for the purpose of voting the farmers as a body.

The Iowa end of the movement started at Somers, where the farmers of Calhoun and Webster counties discussed the project. It was decided to carry on the work. Officers were elected and work of spreading the propaganda is now under way. This is in charge of H. H. Carr of Chicago, who is connected with the Board of Trade there, according to the return card on his envelopes.

The view which is taken of the future of the movement among the farmers is illustrated by extracts from a letter which is being sent all over the state in the hope of interesting the farmers in every school district.

Plan of Organization.
It is believed that the 10,000,000 farmers of the United States can be successfully organized, the letter says, "beginning in the townships. It should be possible to organize organize 2 towns in every county, organize all townships in a county, joining them together in counties, counties into states, states into a national organization; then let farmers use their most effective weapons, the ballot, for sending representatives to their legislatures and to the national body pledged to see that farmers receive their just dues, the same as every other business enterprise receives, and the 50,000,000 people in the United States who are either directly or indirectly connected with agriculture will receive what they are justly entitled to.

"Our newly formed organization declares that every enterprise of any importance in the business world except farming is concentrated into a combine or trust; that if the 10,000,000 farmers of this country can be organized or joined together into a federation working as a unit, they will possess a power and a force against which nothing can prevail and can then, and then only, successfully combat the adverse influences which are combined against them."

W. H. Latsch is president and T. F. Moore is secretary of the first organization in Iowa along this line.

FISH AND GAME ARE PLENTIFUL

OUR VISITORS IN THE SOUTH ENJOYING GOOD SPORT.

WARM WEATHER HAS ARRIVED

Are Enjoying the Balmly Atmosphere of the Land of Dixie and Cotton Blossoms.

(For the Gazette.)
Camp Bailey, Cleveland, Florida, March 1.—With a temperature of 70 and a heavy Indian summer atmosphere it is difficult to draw the line between the last day of winter and first day of spring.

A bag of quail yesterday closed the quail shooting for the season and now tarpon rods and reels, carrying from 200 to 300 yards of line, are being lashed up for a session with the liveliest fish found in southern waters.

The fishing here is like it is everywhere. Some days they bite and some they don't, but the excitement never wanes, for when you begin to get drowsy, a porpoise weighing from 600 to 800 pounds rolls over near the boat to amuse you, or an alligator lazily rolls off the bank nearby and disappears from sight. As a nerve tonic there is nothing like it.

Red Sea Bass
Monday Mr. and Mrs. Bailey came in with a red sea bass weighing 19½ pounds. Mrs. Bailey had the pleasure of hooking him, and it required twenty minutes to tire him out. This is the largest fish yet caught by the party, but the fishing season has just commenced.

The newness of this old country grows on you with familiarity. Back from the little flag station, Cleveland, and extending east across the state to Palm Beach is a wilderness as wild as can be found in any country. Halfway across the state is Lake Okechobee, an inland lake surrounded by the Everglades which extend south until lost in the sea.

The Everglades
The Everglades are narrow strips of land covered with saw grass and interlaced with channels of water forming a bewildering labyrinth which has never been explored save by the Seminole Indians, who still retain a foothold in this maze of sea marsh.

Southern Florida is as level as a floor. The land is from four to six feet above sea level at low tide and it gradually slopes away, leaving a beach of mud a mile wide, rendering the shore unapproachable. The best pilot on the coast are unable to keep track of the constantly shifting bars and channels, and government charts are so unreliable that they are never used.

Town of Cleveland
This little town of Cleveland, which has been the Bailey family's winter resort for the past 16 years, has a history. Some 20 years ago a well-to-do New York state farmer inherited some land in eastern Florida and sold it out in small parcels to good advantage for orange groves.

He became infatuated with the state and after looking over the southern end of it, decided to invest in a tract of land on the west coast and near the entrance to the bay. A land-lorded harbor and the proposed extension of the Atlantic Coast line railroad induced him to lay out a town and build a hotel. The railroad came and for two years Cleveland was the terminus and the shipping point for fruit from the various islands south. Stores were built, a $50,000 phosphate plant erected and the place was prosperous.

Bad Harbor
The railroad company soon discovered, however, that vessels of this size could not get into the harbor, and so extended their line four miles further south on the open coast, built a dock 1,300 feet long and started the town of Punta Gorda.

This meant the death of Cleveland. About his time the phosphate beds failed and the plant was abandoned, so for the past ten years all that is left of the town is the hotel and a country store and postoffice known as Wannamakers'. The hotel is closed nine months in the year, but is still an ideal place for people who enjoy an outdoor life free from style and dress parade.

Property Depreciates
The building cost $8,000 and can be bought today for $1,500 with all the climate thrown in. If would make a great clubhouse and will probably be picked up for that purpose. The shooting is good and the fishing the best in Florida. Adjoining the town is a primitive laundry where family washing is done in the most simple manner. Bubbling out of the ground under the pine trees is a soft water spring. Supported by three stones, a big iron kettle serves as a reservoir for hot water, while three or four tubs and as many washboards make up the furniture of this open air wash shop.

Family Wash
The family wash which decorates the palm-tree scrub almost every day in the week, indicates that the people believe in cleanliness. It is a neighborhood laundry, patronized by every family within a mile, and it saves the necessity of a distern at home and the wash around the house. Why the people of the north never got onto the trick is difficult to explain. It is one of the few evidences of progress in the land of moderation. Tucked to the door casing in the hotel office are four tarpon scales taken from as many fish caught by

TWO HOURS' CATCH

Mr. George Cannon in the early part of April last year. The scales measure about 2x3½ inches and were taken from fish measuring from 5½ to 6½ feet long with a girth of from 30 to 36 inches, and weighing from 100 to 120 pounds.

Alligator Pass
About a mile and a half above the hotel is a pass, connecting Peace river and Shell creek. This place, which is 60 yards wide and a quarter of a mile in length, is known as Alligator Pass, because it has always been a favorite resort for alligators. It is also noted as a good point for tarpon, and more than a dozen have been caught in Alligator Pass during the past two years.

Peace river extends along the west coast of Florida and seven miles north of Cleveland. On this stream is the little town of Liverpool, where an extensive phosphate plant is located.

Small River
Shell creek, about the size of Rock river, extends inland, and some miles up the creek the banks, 15 feet high, are a solid shell formation. The government sent out a geologist last year to explore this creek and he gathered and shipped to the Smithsonian institute six tons of shells from Shell creek, including some thirty varieties. He claimed that the formation represented 100 centuries of time.

The tide sets back in this creek, as well as in Peace river, for a dozen miles, making the water brackish and unfit for use. The water supply for the hotel is from a flowing spring well, but it is so strong of sulphur that it is unsafe to light a cigar for an hour after dinner. The ladies drink it with impunity. This is a good country to winter in, but what else it is good for is a problem that the inhabitants are trying to solve.

CITY COUNCIL IN SESSION

Last Evening Considered Automatic Sprinklers and Relations of Water Co Thereto—Other Matters

Members of the common council and the city officials were photographed last evening and after that accompanied Alderman Connell to the West Side theatre to sustain their record as "first nighters" in the first row whenever anything is stirring in Janesville. In anticipation of this picture pose and excursion, no doubt, the business of the session was handled with unaccustomed dispatch. Reports of the board of education, the fire department, the municipal court, and the finance committee were received and accepted. Herman Kahn was given permission to transfer his saloon license to Fred Luebke and the bonds of the latter were approved. Authority was given to Alfred McDougall and Mrs. Martha J. Staples to move buildings, the latter being allowed to transfer her property with a traction engine from the corner of Franklin and Pleasant streets, across the Milwaukee street bridge, and thence south to Cottage place. His Honor's appointment of George Phelps, John Dalton, and George Phillips, as special police officers without pay were confirmed. City Engineer Kerch was authorized to employ Frank W. Kimball as assistant at a salary not to exceed $85.

Ballot Clerks Appointed

Mayor Hutchinson announced the appointment as ballot-clerks for the coming primary election, the following: 1st ward—David Conger and Edward Howland; 2d ward—A. H. Taylor and Louis Skavlem; 3d ward—C. C. Carr and George H. Smith; 4th ward—C. E. Curtis and A. G. Guggs; 5th ward—Daniel Powers and J. A. Sutherland. The appointments were confirmed. By an order it was directed that five of the seven metal boxes for waste-paper which are to be donated to the city, be placed in the following localities: at the Bower City bank corner, on the south side of the Milwaukee street bridge, in front of the Janesville Electric Co's office, in front of the First National bank, and in front of the Sherer drugstore on West Milwaukee street. Alderman Jackson recommended that residents on South Bluff street between Park place and South Second be given permission to build a sidewalk in line with and adjoining the curb. Petition granted.

Given a Cold Welcome

A mother may not forget her child but a city may be exceedingly indifferent to wayward obligations turning up fifty years after date and earning recognition. A proposition advanced by General Joe Doe of Milwaukee met with a distinctly chilly reception last evening. He announced that he held for sale numbers 69, 70 and 75 of Janesville city scrip issued to the Rock River Valley Union Railroad Co., Aug. 1, 1854, for $1,000 each; that these bonds were due July 1, 1875, and called for interest at 8 per cent per annum, payable semi-annually; and that all the coupons were attached except Nos. 1 and 2, indicating that interest was paid up to July 1, 1854. The explanation of the source of these mysterious and forgotten evidences of indebtedness was a trifle vague. The writer said that he understood that they had been found by certain executors, in a safety deposit vault in New York. The signatures of A. Hyatt Smith, mayor, and J. W. Hobson, treasurer, are attached, and instruments are alleged to be duly assigned in blank. The bonds are, of course, outlawed and Gen. Doe recognizes in his communication that it might be difficult to establish any legal liability, but he thinks that the honor and credit of the city of Janesville may induce the council to make an offer for them. The judiciary committee asked for further time in which to consider the matter.

Automatic Sprinkler Matter

The same committee also made the same request regarding the notification received from Mrs. Margaret Carney that she would hold the city responsible for the fracture of an arm sustained in falling on an alleged defective sidewalk in front of Mrs. E. Hall's store, 35 West Milwaukee street, on Jan. 22. To secure from the city water company inside fire protection for factories desiring it, by relieving the said water company of all responsibility for the failure of the automatic apparatus to work properly, is the object of an ordinance introduced by Alderman Matheson last evening, advanced to its first and second reading, and referred to the fire and water committee for consideration at a special meeting of that and other committees at the council chambers next Monday afternoon at four o'clock. The measure provides for the amendment of section 14 of the ordinance providing for the supply of water in this city and authorizes the Janesville Water Co. to make reasonable conditions and regulations for pipe-connections, from 4 to 6 inches in diameter, with its system, for the purpose of supplying automatic apparatus for inside fire protection, with the understanding that said company shall be in no way, liable or responsible for any failure of water pressure at any time, caused by any breakage of or in any such pipe connection so used for supplying automatic apparatus, or caused by the operation or breakage of such apparatus.

FORMER RESIDENT DIED IN INDIANA

Captain Isaac Miles Passed Away After a Long and Useful Life.

Word has been received in Los Angeles, Cal., by Mr. Lucius Miles, formerly of Janesville, that his father, Capt. Isaac Miles, passed away at his home at Bryantburg, Indiana, on the 18th of February at the advanced age of 90 years and three months. Capt. Miles was born in Shelby county, Kentucky, Oct. 30th, 1814, and was married to Elizabeth Hargrove in Indiana on Oct. 22d, 1835, where they made their home until April, 1851, when with his wife and three children he removed to Wisconsin, making a comfortable home on a farm in the town of Fulton, Rock county. He will be well remembered as a man of unflinching energy and ambition. He had many generous impulses, was cheerful, and ever ready and glad to help anyone to help themselves. Capt. Miles was preceded to the other shore by a large family of brothers and sisters several of whom lived to over 80 years of age. His son, Henry C. Miles, died in the prime of life; his wife in March, 1885, with whom he lived 50 years; a second wife, whom he married and lived with ten years at Morrisstown, Ind., and his daughter, the late Mrs. Edwin Hubbell, who died in California last May, and with whom he has lived several years. He is survived by a widow with whom his last years have been spent at Canaan and Bryantburg, Indiana; one sister, Mrs. W. W. Kay of Stoughton, Wis.; a son, Mr. L. E. Miles of Los Angeles; a grand-daughter, Mrs. W. S. Squire, also of Los Angeles, and a grandson, Mr. E. M. Hubbell of Edgerton, Wis. In 1862 Mr. Miles raised a company at Janesville and served his country as captain of Co. E 22d regiment of infantry until captured at Buenvista, Tennessee, in March, 1863. He was confined in Libby prison about 26 days. His death was due to a complication of diseases, kidney and heart trouble coupled with old age. Though his health had been poor during last summer and winter, his illness was but of a few days. He was buried in Hebron cemetery after short services at his late home, Sunday, the 19th. The sympathy of his many friends and neighbors in this community is extended to Mrs. Miles.

The Telephone on Railroads.

The day is coming, say railroad men, when misunderstanding orders can no longer be offered as an explanation of railroad accidents like those that have caused such loss of life and such serious injury in the last two or three months. And they base their prediction on the substitution of the telephone for the telegraph in controlling the movement of trains, which is spreading fast as its success is proved in other departments of railway management.

Until quite recently the use of the telephone for handling traffic has been of disputed value, and many managers still think it is only in the experimental stage. But its adoption by the Burlington, which proposes to make the change throughout its systems, after a careful trial extending over several years, is an example pretty sure to be followed by other progressive managements. Already the Pennsylvania is making tests on one of its freight roads just out of Philadelphia and the telephone has been used exclusively for directing the intricate train movements in the immense yard at the union terminal station of the New York Central and the New York, New Haven & Hartford in Boston ever since it was opened.

What commends the telephone to railroad men is that it requires no skilled operator to use it, that it brings within instant reach so many more people than the telegraph does, and that it permits of personal conversation. There is less danger of misunderstanding telephone orders than those sent by "Morse" because there can be no errors of transmission or transcription that cannot be corrected on the spot, before there has been time for any harm to be done by a mistake. The telephone is fully as available on the telegraph almost everywhere, too, for the long distance lines of the Bell companies run beside the tracks of practically every steam road.

For communication between signal station and stopping places the railroads are likely to have times of their own, but the presence of the Bell wires, also, brings within reach a vast territory beyond this private service with which it is sometimes very important to be in close touch. In case of an accident, for example, for it is not to be expected that there will be no further mishaps of any kind just because human carelessness may be made less likely—it is generally desirable to reach a number of desirable officials, perhaps in widely separated places, within a short space of time, and often human suffering and loss of property can be saved by the kind of consultation which consists in questions and answers that would take perhaps hours to complete by telegraph.

The position the telephone is assuming in transportation management is interestingly illustrated by the fact that the longest private line in the world is just about being completed for a railroad company, connecting the New York and Chicago offices of the New York Central. It has been built and equipped on Bell standards; and, in fact, the railroad business is so rapidly increasing that a whole department at the general Bell headquarters is now given over to the peculiar forms of instruments and other special apparatus that has been devised for it.

NUMBER OF FIRES GREATLY REDUCED

THREE MONTHS OF 1905 BEST IN TEN YEARS.

QUARTERLY REPORT OF CHIEF

Takes Up Interesting Matters Relating to Further Protection—Threats for New Station.

By the passing of an order introduced by Alderman Schwartz at the council meeting last evening, the chief engineer of the fire department was authorized to employ three additional firemen at No. 3 station. Matters pertaining to the department were discussed by that official in the following communication:
To the Honorable, the Mayor and Common Council:
Gentlemen: I herewith submit my quarterly report as chief engineer of the fire department, and in doing so congratulate the common council and the property owners that we have been exempt from disastrous fires so far this year. I am also pleased to report that there have been less alarms sounded during this interval, than any time in the last ten years. For all of which, I can assure you, the department is very thankful.

Losses Were Small

Since January 1, 1905, the department has responded to seven (7) box and one (1) still alarm, making eight (8) calls up to date. The losses range from nothing up to sixty (60) dollars. The heaviest loss was on February 11, at 1:20 o'clock in the afternoon, being in the Peters house on South Academy street. Here the loss was $60, which was covered by insurance.

Condition of Equipment

The horses of the department are at this time in good health and condition. Two new ones were purchased since my last report. The same are intended for use at No. 3 fire station. All of the fire wagons are in good condition, with the exception of No. 2 hose wagon, which is in need of some alterations and is now in the repair shop. The vehicle known as the "excruciating" wagon has been painted at a cost of $7. The harnesses belonging to the department have undergone some repairs recently, and to get them in strictly first-class order further repairs are necessary, which will be made as soon as possible.

Jeffris Pipe Line

Again I desire to call the attention of the common council to the condition of the dry pipe line over the Jeffris company plant on North River street; this is in no condition to be used, by reason of the pipe being split in a number of places and should be repaired or removed. It being a number of years since the interior of No. 2 station has been painted, and as a coat of paint would greatly improve it, I would respectfully ask that the same be done. The new fire station to be known as No. 3 is about ready for occupancy, and to put the same in service it will be necessary for you gentlemen of the common council to make provisions to "man" this company.

Respectfully submitted,
H. C. KLEIN,
Janesville, Wis., March 1, 1905.

Mrs. Austin says my Backache cures will please you if you love the good old fashion dave.

SHROVE TUESDAY MARKS THE FINIS

Lent Begins Tomorrow—Forty Days of Prayer and Penitence.

Tomorrow begins the forty days of penance and prayer, but today carnival reigns. Today is Shrove Tuesday, "Pancake Tuesday" of old England. Tonight at twelve King Comus ends his revels and doffs his gay robes for the sack clothes and ashes of the morrow. Shrove Tuesday has come down to us from pagan times. In "Merry Old England" it was once the custom of the people to confess of "shrive" early the morning of this day and then dine on pancakes. Waits made the rounds of the parishes and were fed with these delicate cakes. In Italy and even in New Orleans, mad revels are held, starting on Monday and closing tonight. The ancient carnival time began in Italy on January 7th and closed promptly at midnight on Shrove Tuesday. It is the survival of the ancient Bacchanalian feasts of the Romans, feasts which the ancients gave in honor of the gods, Ceres and Pan. These were superseded through the instrumentality of the early Popes into the modern church feasts and have thus come down to us through the ages. Tomorrow Lent begins with its forty days of prayer and meditation. Both the Catholic and Episcopal churches will hold daily services throughout the forty days. Lent is late this year. Last year it began on Feb. 17.

For an early breakfast, nothing is quite so fine as Mrs. Austin's famous Breakfast. So good you always want more.

The want ads are always busy.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away call by call.

Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys, and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, by mail, free of charge. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. WHY IT SHOULD PAY YOU TO ATTEND THIS SCHOOL—

1. Because our course of instruction stands unrivaled.
2. Because your services would be in demand when you were graduated.
3. Because the members of our staff are thoroughly competent instructors.
4. Because our pupils command high salaries and are in greater demand than those of other business schools.
5. Because the student's stay is made pleasant as well as profitable, so that he entertains pleasant memories of college days.
6. Because our graduates are not found among the ranks of incompetents who are always seeking positions. Ours are holding the best positions.
7. Our graduates leave us as practical office hands, not theorists who need months of experience after leaving college to be of any value in an office. Those needing this experience are constantly looking for employment. They are the graduates of schools where tuition is cheap, instruction poor and the standard of graduation low.

Labor Notes

The 17 local metal trades associations of principal cities of the United States have agreed, through their representative to affiliate with the national association. Heretofore the national association and the local have independent relations, although working with the same objects in view. This makes this organization the strongest body of employers in the country or in the world.

Newark, N. J., labor disputes may be settled soon.

The New Haven railroad employees are in dispute with the management over wage conditions.

Among the many things the last fifty years organized labor has done for the working people is the material betterment as seen in the shorter hours of work, more regular employment, greater leisure, better houses and better house conditions. Organized labor in the past twelve months has done much to help this by maintaining wages and helping employer and employee to a mutual understanding of the necessity and rights of both.

The New York state court of appeals has declared unconstitutional the labor law which prohibits a contractor from employing his men more than eight hours a day on city, county or state work.

The question of a "labor defense fund" is again engaging the attention of the Toronto, Canada, District Labor Council.

For wilfully making false entries in the wage book a boss tailor at Invercargill, New Zealand, was recently fined twenty pounds and four pounds 11 shillings costs under the factories act.

The Printing Pressman and Assistants' Union may establish a permanent home for the organization in some central city.

Chicago, Ill., labor unions are active in procuring sanitary conditions in factories and buildings.

A manual training department has been added to the public schools of Omaha, Neb., largely due to the efforts of the women's clubs of that city.

NEWS FOR THE PLAY-GOERS

Paula Edwards, the youngest and one of the most attractive of the female stars who is to appear here at the Myers Grand tomorrow evening in "The Belle of New York," Miss Edwards went to London returning to New York the following August. In the meantime she had met Mr. Daly in London, and he decided to give her the role of Carmelita in "The Runaway Girl," so on her arrival in New York he sent her back to London for two weeks to see the role as it was played on the other side. She remained with Mr. Daly until his death and his latest plans for Miss Edwards included featuring her in one of the Rosina Vokes plays, as a curtain raiser during Miss Rehan's starring tour. The first aroused Miss Edwards' ambitions to star, but with Mr. Daly's death the texture of her ambitions changed. She played in various revivals of the Daly successes, the role of Louise, the novel-reading bookkeeper in "The Great Ruby;" in "The Circus Girl," "San Toy" and "The Girl of the Year;" in "The Show Girl" and then came Jelly Canvas in "The Defender." When Mr. Sam S. Shubert decided to star Miss Edwards the play selected was the work of Jackson Wild and Paulton, authors of "Germine," but the piece was so strongly English and Australian in its coloring that it was necessary to be published by Gustav Kerkter and American Ranken, and the result is a charming artistic vehicle for the little star's talents and personality.

The programme for the occasion is new and choice, having been made up with great care. All together, it will probably surpass anything our citizens have had for long time. ## MANUFACTURED MATERIAL.

Manufacturers' material formed more than one-half of the total imports into the United States in the month of January, and about 46 per cent for the seven months of the fiscal year which ends with January. The January record of imports of manufacturers' materials is exceptionally large, and shows a marked increase over January of last year. Manufacturers' materials, as classified by the Department of Commerce and Labor through its Bureau of Statistics, are divided into two groups: first, the articles in a crude condition for use in manufacturing, and second, articles wholly or partially manufactured, for use in manufacturing. The first-mentioned group, "articles in a crude condition for use in manufacturing," shows an increase of 40 per cent in January, 1905, over January, 1904, the total value of articles of this character imported in January, 1905, being $38,034,175, against $27,087,901 in January of last year. For the seven months ending with January an increase of about 20 per cent is shown over the corresponding months of last year, the total for the seven months being $205,431,307, against $173,130,110 of the previous year. In the second class, "articles wholly or partially manufactured, for use in manufacturing," the increase is very slight, the amount for January, 1905, being $11,471,985, against $10,038,173 for January, 1904, while in the seven months ending with January the figures of 1905 are about half a million dollars below those of the corresponding period of 1904.

This record of January, 1905, in which manufacturers' materials actually formed more than one-half of the total entries, is a very unusual one, though the share which manufacturers' materials are forming of our imports is steadily increasing. In 1920 manufacturers' materials formed about 16.6 per cent of the total imports; by 1880 they formed about 23.2 per cent; in 1870, a like proportion; in 1880, 37 per cent; in 1890, 34 per cent; in 1895, 37 per cent; in 1900, 45 per cent; in the fiscal year 1904, 45 per cent; in the seven months ending with January, 1905, 45.8 per cent, and in the single month of January, 50.1 per cent.

The manufacturers of the United States, who thus imported for their own use one-half of the value of the imports into the United States during January, also contributed largely to the export record of the month, the total value of manufactures exported during the month being $40,512,915, or 33.7 per cent of the total exports for the month. Manufactures formed but 13 per cent of the total exports in 1850, 15 per cent in 1870, 17.3 per cent in 1890, 31.6 per cent in 1900, 34 per cent in the seven months ending with January, and 33 per cent in the single month of January. Thus manufacturers, according to these figures of the Bureau of Statistics, steadily increasing the share which their material forms in the imports and their products form in the exports of the United States. In the seven months ending with January, manufactures exported exceeded by 52 millions the total for the corresponding months of the preceding year, and in the single month of January the total exceeds that of January, 1904, by about 2 million dollars. The imports of material for use in manufacturing in the seven months ending with January exceeded those of the corresponding month of the preceding year by about 33 million dollars, and in the month of January alone exceeded those of January last by more than 12 million dollars.

The principal articles composing the imports for use in manufacturing are raw silk, wool, fibres, lin, india rubber, and hides. The imports of raw silk during the month of January were valued at $5,037,727, against $3,846,022 in January of last year (exclusive of waste), indicating a greatly increased activity in the silk manufacturing industry, and this is apparently sustained by the fact that the quantity of raw silk imported in the seven months ending with January is given by the Bureau of Statistics' report at 11,190,071 pounds, against 6,075,052 pounds in the corresponding months of last year. Of wool, the importations in the month of January, 1905, were 25 million pounds, against 10 millions in January, 1904, and in the seven months ending with January, 1905, are 109 million pounds, against 82 millions in the corresponding months of last year. Of fibres, the importations in the seven months ending with January are valued at $20,699,313, against $21,370,769 in the corresponding months of last year. Of india rubber, the imports in the seven months ending with January, 1905, are valued at $26,447,717, against $20,890,961 in the same months of last year; and of hides and skins, the imports of the seven months ending with January, 1905, are valued at $34,439,265, against $27,708,316 in the corresponding months of last year. Of tin, in pigs, bars, blocks, etc., the imports of the seven months ending with January were 43,621,612 pounds, against 38,714,541 pounds in the corresponding months of last year, while for the single month of January, 1905, the total was 6,179,953 pounds, against 4,077,389 pounds in January of last year.

PRESS COMMENT.

Milwaukee Sentinel: Mr. Isaac Stephenson of Marinette continues to play the role of Warwick with grace and apparent enthusiasm.

Oshkosh Northwestern: It is not the lay of the poet that attracts so much attention at this season of the year as the lay of the haughty hen.

Fond du Lac Reporter: A calico dress can now be bought for a few cents—yet there are men who persist in remaining in the bachelor class.

Appleton Crescent: While Chicago detectives are spying out and arresting spotters on sidewalks, burglars and hold-up-thugs continue their work or terrorizing the city.

Machine Journal: Captain Hobson took his snub at the hands of a La Crosse school principal who refused to permit him to give a lecture in a quiet manner, but many citizens are quite indignant thereat.

Monroe Journal: A Milwaukee physician declares that a man can get along all right without a stomach. That may be well enough in a city where the staff of life is liquid, but in a Swiss cheese community?

Chicago Inter Ocean: Dr. Osler has not as yet ceased to laugh over the joke he played on the country when said that men of 60 years of age should be chloroformed, and, in return, the country has not ceased to laugh, in a derisive fashion, at Dr. Osler.

Green Bay Gazette: An idea of how vast a scale the Russian-Japanese war is being waged on may be obtained from the statement that in the recent conflict the line of battle was one hundred miles long. And there was hard fighting along nearly the entire line.

Bryan's Commonwealth: The Chicago University has received another million. If those who have money to give would divide it up among the smaller colleges it would go farther and bring a collegiate education within the reach of more young men and women.

El Paso Herald: Talking about grim practical jokes, Judge Grosscup who wrote the opinion against the beef trust which the supreme court recently upheld, and who is somewhat noted otherwise as a foe of the octopus, has been enjoined in West Virginia as one of a syndicate trying to work a great merger of gas companies.

Exchange: The appetite of politicians for pay grows by what it feeds on. They sometimes get too much, but they never get enough. In Illinois members of the Legislature receive $1000 for each regular session—twice the salary of members of the legislature in Wisconsin. But a bill is now pending in the Illinois legislature to raise the salary of members to $2500 for each regular session.

Mexican Herald: Paraguay should be rich and prosperous; its territory is twice the size of Uruguay and it has many natural sources of wealth, as in its immense forests, its male plantations, tobacco and orange estates and its vast cattle ranges. The country has iron, copper, kaolin and marble. But it is afflicted with the professional politician, as is also Uruguay, where there are mutterings of another revolution. Argentina will not have rest till some way is found to abolish the power of its provincial caudillos, whose only conception of government is plunder and who often defy the central administration at Buenos Ayres. The provinces owe prodigious sums abroad, largely in England, and show no signs of ever meeting their obligations. And, moreover, many municipalities are head over heels in debt. These are the sick sisters of the south.

Evening Wisconsin: The state of affairs in Washington contingent upon the inauguration has no precedent in the United States. For a parallel it is necessary to look abroad. Perhaps it was equalled in London at the time of the coronation of King Edward VII. President Roosevelt is not to blame. The blame, if blame there be, must be distributed between two classes of individuals. The first class, consisting of people who are usually wrought up with reference to the ceremonial part of the incident of inauguration, includes a large number of non-residents of the capital city, who are spending money like water to witness a spectacle which in the estimation of true republicans has no more significance with reference to republican institutions than the husk and the shell of a coconut have to the milk and the kernel for which the coconut is justly prized. The second class comprises residents of Washington who are imbued with the spirit of money-making, and who realize that the inauguration presents a rare opportunity for gathering in the dollars of foolish Americans.

Marquette Eagle-Star: The Milwaukee Journal continues to print extracts from the newspapers of the state and to credit them to the papers from which they are clipped with the addition, "Half-breed" or "Swallow Rep." It is time this foolishness was stopped by the Journal as it long has been by all other papers in the state. When the leading senators and assemblymen in the legislature, who had formerly been called scoundrels, voted for Robert M. La Follette for United States Senator, both in caucus and in joint session, factionalism died in the republican party of Wisconsin. The fact that Senators Whitehead, Krutzwiler,

A ROSE OF NORMANDY

By WILLIAM R. A. WILSON

"It is good to fear the worst; the best saves itself," said Pompon. "The only way to settle the question is to go there. Do you know where Boucon is?"

"Ma foi! No."

"It is distant about four leagues from Paris. By leaving here at eight o'clock to-night, we can ride there easily in two hours, do what we have to do, and be back by day. It is for you to borrow 100 livres from your friends and hire a horse and an ass. Leave the ass with the cabaretier in the Rue de la Tannerie, and be yourself near the Porte Dauphine. If you see a monk pass out by the gate mounted on an ass, follow him, but do not address nor try to come up to him, until he speaks to the animal he rides. I shall have to have a few livres to get my disguise with, so you had best be gone to borrow the money."

"Par Dieu! a good plan," said Tont. "I shall do it. You beat me at the game of cunning, but when real open fighting comes, I shall do like this," and, seizing Pompon about the waist, raised him from the ground, and by a sudden powerful exertion, held him aloft above his head with his two arms extended. "I have you now, you weasel. Where shall I throw you?"

"Your arm may be strong, but my wit is not wanting," was the reply. "You know a mouse can gnaw a rope that a lion cannot break. Come, mon capitaine, it is time now for work; to-morrow we can play."

CHAPTER IV.

SHOWS HOW MINE HOST OF "THE STRIPPED ASS" TREATED HIS GUESTS, AND HOW HIS PUNISHMENT WAS MADE TO FIT HIS CRIME.

It wanted but a few minutes to eight the same evening when the figure of Tont might have been observed riding slowly along near the bank of the Seine. He walked his horse as though he were in no hurry and his ride were without an object. When opposite Le Pont Neuf, he halted and watched for a moment the group of idlers gathered about the equestrian statue of King Henry in the center of the bridge, who were leaning over the parapet and engaged in bandying jests with the boatmen passing beneath the arches. Having seemingly gained all the amusement possible from a contemplation of this spectacle, Tont soon resumed his journey, turning off in a short time from the river bank and threading his way through various cross-streets until he reached the Rue St. Honore. Following this thoroughfare as far as the city gate, he stopped his horse in the shelter of the wall of

CAME AMBLING ALONG.

Periodic Pains.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are a most remarkable remedy for the relief of periodic pains, backache, nervous or sick headache, or any of the distressing aches and pains that cause women so much suffering.

As pain is weakening, and leaves the system in an exhausted condition, it is wrong to suffer a moment longer than necessary, and you should take the Anti-Pain Pills on first indication of an attack.

If taken as directed you may have entire confidence in their effectiveness, as well as in the fact that they will leave no disagreeable after-effects.

They contain no morphine, opium, chloral, cocaine or other dangerous drugs.

"For a long time I have suffered greatly with spells of backache that seem almost more than I can endure. These attacks come on every month, and last two or three days. I have never been able to get anything that would give me much relief until I began the use of Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills, and they always relieve me in a short time. My sister, who suffers the same way, has used them with the same results."—Mrs. F. A. Park, 721 S. Michigan St., South Bend, Ind.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first package will benefit. If it fails he will return your money. It is 25 cents, 25 cents. Never sold in bulk. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

Les Capucins, to await his companion. In a moment, or two he beheld a sight that made it hard for his mirth-loving nature to keep itself within bounds. A small white ass came ambling along and passed him, carrying a very fat, unwieldy-looking monk of the Franciscan order, clad in gray cowl, girdle, and sandals. His monkship apparently had not been astride an animal for a long time, and such were the evident signs of discomfort on his face that one instantly surmised that he was undergoing a penance of some sort. He made no attempt to guide the ass, but sat holding on helplessly to the rope that served as rein and bridle. The gate was not yet closed for the night, so he passed unchallenged, the guards laughing heartily at the figure he cut. Tont waited until he had gotten a couple of minutes' start of him, and then turned into the road and passed likewise through the gate without hindrance. The night watch had just arrived, and in the confusion attending the change of guard he was easily overlooked. He had hardly gone a score of paces beyond, when he heard the gate close behind him. Any one leaving or entering after that hour would be carefully scrutinized.

In the fast-gathering gloom, Tont spied his ecclesiastical friend trotting peacefully along the Chemin de Villiers. He hurriedly followed him, but preserved a respectful distance. He received no sign, neither heard any sound from him. Becoming alarmed lest he had really made a mistake, he was about to turn back toward the city, when suddenly the ghostly figure began beating his animal with the rein and kicking his sides as effectively as he could with his sandaled feet.

"A murrain seize this beast for a vicious, rough-riding child of Beelzebub. May the devil take him and all his kind! Ha! mon ami Tont, I feared it was not you. Someone else followed me on a horse almost up to the gate, and I did not know but that you were he. I fear that he suspected that I was disguised. I don't believe that I sit well when I ride."

"Peste! Pompon! If I do not get you a place in the Horse Guards. You sit your animal like a sack of meal."

"You would look like one yourself," Pompon replied, rather testily, "if you had a back stuffed with straw and a paunch made out of enough hay to keep a horse in health for a week, all squeezed into a heavy cowl and tied together with a stout cord. Between the heat and discomfort of my disguise, and the jolting of this beast, I am thankful we have only four leagues to go. He who is in great haste should not ride an ass."

"Where got you your disguise?" queried Tont.

"From my friend the cabaretier," was the reply. "He was one of M. Fouquet's secret agents; many is the message I have taken from him. The words 'Remember sixty-four' that I told you to whisper to him is the secret means of recognition among all those who were connected with the unfortunate minister. It was in 1664, you know, that he fell."

"Are there any others?"

"Hundreds. They are in every rank and condition. M. Fouquet was a good master to serve and a liberal one, as I can bear witness. All who served him loved him."

Talking thus of his old employer, a theme Pompon never tired of, the strangely assorted pair rode on into the shades of the on-coming night. When about half the distance had been traversed, they turned off into a road leading to the left, and by ten o'clock saw a light or two from the small hamlet of Boucon twinkling in the darkness ahead of them. On reaching the outskirts of the village, they dismounted and led their beasts into a wood at the side of the road and tethered them.

Entering the town on foot, they found it considerably later than they had hoped for, so they quickened their pace, lest the inn be closed for the night. Here and there a light was visible where some late-a-bed still kept his house open for a neighboring game of dice, and from one or two half-open doors came the sound of feasting. As they drew near the most prominent of the window-lights, they found it to belong to an inn of the older type. All was still in the story above, and quiet reigned about the place. A shed for the disposal of travelers' horses was situated at one end of the building, while above the door a sign of some sort graced harshly as the light night wind moved it slowly to and fro. It was too dark for the two men to decipher anything on the signboard, so they approached the window from which the glow proceeded. Tont raised himself on tip-toe and looked in.

The interior was apparently empty, and consisted of the usual public-room of the average inn of the period. Upon the huge hearth a bright fire was blazing, which cast alternate light and shade upon the low ceiling and the further corners of the room. A number of heavy wooden tables with benches around them filled up the greater portion of the floor space. On these a profusion of emptied, dirty glasses and mugs bespoke a good night's custom for the proprietor. At the side of the room was arranged a kind of private office, as it were, fenced off from the rest by a railing, behind which was placed a table and a bench. It was evidently the innkeeper's especial domain, for, as Tont's eyes became more accustomed to the half-gloom, he spied the figure of a man seated upon the bench, busily engaged in counting a small pile of coin spread out upon the table before him. He glanced uneasily over his shoulder now and then at the door and the window, as though fearful of being seen. He soon finished his task, and quickly swept the money into a small leather pouch, which he closed with a look of satisfaction, stowing it away in the recesses of his blouse. At this moment Tont left the window, and, advancing to the door, struck it sharply with the hilt of his sword. Pompon, whispering that he would come in later, disappeared in the darkness.

"Hoi! Landlord, open here! Would you keep a gentleman and a soldier waiting in the night when you have within a good fire to warm his hands and good wine to cheer his heart? Corbleu! Open, I say, or it will be the worse for you. I am not the man to be kept waiting."

So speaking, he belabored the door with hilt and fist so lustily that the landlord came running to let him in, crying:

"Yes, yes, gentlemen, in one moment, I pray you. But do not awaken the whole house. It is late," he continued, unfastening the door and opening it an inch, peering out meanwhile to see what manner of guests he was welcoming. "Late, indeed, for honest folk to be about."

As soon as the crack of the door widened sufficiently to admit the hilt of the sword, Tont inserted it, and with a quick pressure with this lever he swung the door open in spite of the landlord's efforts to hold it. "How now, Sir Innkeeper! Dame! but I believe you have kept me out there a full hour longer if you had had your way."

So speaking, he stepped into the light of the room. Upon seeing a man evidently a soldier, and from Paris, the landlord's fears quieted themselves. One suspicion, however, remained.

"Pardon, Sir Capitaine," he cried, bowing obsequiously, "but where is your companion? Did you not say that there were two of you, a soldier and a gentleman?"

Tont, was puzzled for a moment, and then laughed.

"And may I not be both? Here, bite that, and tell me if it be gold or no. If so, fetch me a bottle of wine, the very best, and some food." So saying, he flung down a pistole upon the table near him.

The innkeeper quickly seized it, bit it, and after testing its ring, pocketed it with alacrity, his suspicions vanished.

"Draw near the fire," he exclaimed, as he busily stirred the logs, "and I shall return presently with the best bottle to be found this side of Paris. It has been in the cellar for 14 years, ever since I came to this town, and was there I know not how long before me."

With these words, he hastily brushed off a bench, motioned Tont to be seated, and was gone. Tont looked about him carefully.

"It must be the place," he murmured to himself. "He said he had been here 14 years, and it is just that length of time since Fouquet's downfall."

His eyes wandered toward the fireplace and his thoughts were confirmed. A huge stone slab some seven feet in length and three in width constituted the hearth. This stone was bordered by a single row of bricks that were covered with dust and ashes. Tont's eyes danced with excitement as he beheld them, and he wondered why Pompon was delayed so long and what his plan would be to get a chance of testing the truth of his cipher-message.

Presently he heard the innkeeper returning, and he reappeared bearing the remains of a huge goose-pie in one arm and a dusty, musty, cobwebbed bottle of wine in the other. These he placed before his guest, who was soon devouring the one and sipping the other, whose grapes must have weighed the vine on the sunny vineyard slopes fully 30 years before. He was about to compliment the landlord standing before him upon the excellence of his providing when he heard the voice of singing in the street outside the inn and close at hand.

"Quand nous fumes sur le pont qui tremble, Helas, mon Dieu!"

were the words they heard. Then came a silence, broken only by the shuffling sound of some one walking laboriously among the pebbles and sand of the roadway. Then came the song nearer than before:

"Quand nous fumes le Saintonge, Helas, mon Dieu!"

followed by a heavy knock at the door. The innkeeper hastened to open it, and the light from the fire fell full on the figure of Tont's late companion. He had found and trimmed a young tree into a serviceable pilgrim's staff, and his expression was that of great weariness.

STORY OF A DOCTOR'S PRESCRIPTION

Father John's Medicine was originally prescribed for Rev. Father John O'Brien of Lowell, Mass., in 1856, by an eminent specialist. He was very much "run down" and suffering a severe cough and cold and this prescription produced such wonderful results in his case that he afterwards recommended it to his parishioners and friends.

In this way, it became popularly known as Father John's Medicine and many thousands have since benefited by this valuable prescription.

As a guarantee that the story of Father John's Medicine is absolutely true, the sum of $25,000 will be given to any charitable institution if it can be shown otherwise. Also it is further guaranteed that if Father John's Medicine does not do all that we claim for it your money will be refunded.

Doan's Kidney Pills do one thing only. They are for sick kidneys. They cure backache, every kidney ill.

Here is evidence to prove it. Mrs. George M. Carey of 1020 Pleasant street, Beloit, says: "I could hardly realize that the first box of Doan's Kidney Pills obtained at C. E. Emerson's drug store did me so much good. I used medicines for a time but soon I became as bad as ever if not worse. I suffered from disordered kidneys for four years and the pain in my back was terrible. I could not sleep but at times had to sit up almost the entire night. When rising from a chair I was often compelled to place my hands on the sides of it and raise myself up to keep the strain off my back. I also suffered from the disturbing of my rest at night. After using Doan's Kidney Pills a short time these symptoms left me and since then I have felt well."

TRAFFIC IN LIQUOR PACKAGES

Kansas Passes a Law to Prevent the Evasion of Prohibition.

Topeka, Kan., March 7.—The Kansas legislature has passed a law prohibiting express companies from delivering packages of liquor to any other person than the consignee. This will remove one of the most common violations of the prohibitory law. It long has been the custom of the wholesale liquor dealers in Kansas City to send liquor into Kansas addressed with fictitious names. These packages would be left in the care of the express agent. Any person in the town wanting liquor could go to the express man, sign for one of the packages, pay the express charges and pay for the liquor on the C. O. D. plan, and it was his.

Baptizes Six at Midnight.

Half-Time for Miners.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., March 7.—Orders issued by the anthracite coal companies indicate that work at the collieries during March will be about half time or a little better, but that next month steady work will begin and continue indefinitely.
